

Deep Learning Lab Course
Milad Kiwan
esercise 2

We notice that changing the learning rate make a very slight influence on the accuracy and loss value but instead it makes a remarkable change on the number of steps, which means more time for training the model. So from my point of view I would chose to work with the 0.1 learning rate because it guarantees us the almost same accuracy but with much fewer steps.